WINE OVERVIEW

Named after Bill Stoller's sister, this wine, made primarily from Pommard, is bold. Aromatics of sandalwood, anise, and soft red fruits give way to a rich, structured palate due in part to 35% whole cluster fermentation. Flavors of black cherry, tilled earth, minerality, and spice lead to a long finish.

HARVEST OVERVIEW

The 2017 vintage is classically Oregon. Despite a cold winter and cooler than normal spring, ideal weather after flowering created a healthy fruit set, with as much as 20% more berries per cluster than average. Summer was dry and hot, but vines saw little drought stress. By September, everything was on track for a traditional, "normal" Oregon harvest in the Willamette Valley, with Pinot Noir exhibiting outstanding quality. Harvest produced a bumper crop with intense flavor, and perfect sugar and acid levels.
